Leadership Breakfast

The Next Step Leader Mentoring program is hosting a unique leadership breakfast on Friday, January 21, 2011. The event begins at 7:30 a.m. and will be held at the Los Poblanos Historic Inn & Cultural Center. (4803 Rio Grande NW)

Guest speakers include:

Doug Brown – Dean, UNM Anderson School of Management
Michael Shenkman – Author, Founder and Director of Next Step Leader Mentoring

Businesses and individuals are being gravely challenged in this economy and it is the leaders who are rooted in their values that will pull through.

This Leadership Breakfast will present discussion on the following:

How do you identify the leaders in your organization?

How do you develop their aspirations and loyalty?

How do you provide your organization with its future leaders?

The presentation introduces an important resource for responding to those questions - Leader Mentoring. Distinct from coaching, Leader Mentoring is specifically oriented to deepening and broadening a person's commitment to leading and to stepping up to ever greater challenges.

That is just the attitude, orientation and sense of commitment that paves the way for your business to succeed.

Founded in 2002, the Next Step Leader Mentoring program pairs aspiring leaders with local entrepreneurs and executives in a "mentor-mentee" relationship. The program is supported by tuition and the contributions of individuals, foundations, and corporations.

Admission (outlined below) includes breakfast, leadership presentation and a copy of Michael Shenkman's new book, Leader Mentoring: Find, Inspire and Cultivate Great Leaders.
